for many students the traditional approach to the study of history does not work the litany of facts arranged in a chronological sequence often turns out to be mind numbing and forgettable in addition they see little relevance between the past and the world they live in today relearning history was written for those students instead of reviewing the traditional time line of the past the focus is directed at questions relevant to the present why does the two party system dominate american politics why is wealth so unevenly distributed why does race and gender still play such a large role in modern society why has there never been a world war three these why questions along with 11 others serve as the foundation for a discussion of history so that the study of the past is inexorably linked to a enhanced understanding of the present students who are currently enrolled in history classes can use relearning history to supplement and enrich the traditional curriculum some may even want to use it in place of the traditional curriculum as for those adults who have completed their formal education and never learned much in their earlier history classes this book will give them the chance to finally study history in a meaningful manner many of us long to experience the fullness of God and His purpose for our lives, not a whole lot of us ever do. The reason is that we have departed in some significant ways from the biblical view of Christian life and growth. The New Testament highlights the communal, missional, and eschatological aspects of our walk with God. We grow in our faith as individual Christians to the degree that we are a deeply rooted relationally in a local church community that is b passionately playing its part in God’s grand story of creation, fall, redemption, and restoration, and c intently anticipating the summing of all things in Christ when Jesus returns in recent decades, American evangelicals have traded away community outreach and the Bible’s teaching about eternity future for the pursuit of individual religious experience in the here and now. Why we need the church to become more like Jesus traces this departure from biblical Christianity through recent decades of popular evangelical trends and reminds us that faith centered on community mission and the story line of scripture remains the key to the spiritual formation of the individual Christian.

this book is the first complete intellectual biography of hermann cohen 1842 1918 and the only work to cover all his major philosophical and jewish writings frederick c beiser pays special attention to all phases of cohen s intellectual development its breaks and its continuities throughout seven decades the guiding goal behind cohen s intellectual career he argues was the development of a radical rationalism one committed to defending the rights of unending enquiry and unlimited criticism cohen s philosophy was therefore an attempt to defend and revive the enlightenment belief in the authority of reason his critical idealism an attempt to justify this belief and to establish a purely rational worldview according to this interpretation cohen s thought is resolutely opposed to any form of irrationalism or mysticism because these would impose arbitrary and artificial limits on criticism and enquiry it is therefore critical of those interpretations which see cohen s philosophy as a species of proto existentialism rosenzweig or jewish mysticism adelmann and köhnke hermann cohen an intellectual biography attempts to unify the two sides of cohen s thought his philosophy and his judaism maintaining that cohen s judaism was not a limit to his radical rationalism but a consistent development of it beiser contends that his religion was one of reason he concludes that most critical interpretations have failed to appreciate the philosophical depth and sophistication of his judaism a religion which committed the believer to the unending search for truth and the striving to achieve the cosmopolitan ideals of reason tackling important philosophical questions on modernity what it is where it begins and when it ends przemyslaw tacik challenges the idea that modernity marks a particular epoch and historicises its conception to offer a radical critique of it his deconstruction informed critique collects and assesses reflections on modernity from major philosophers including Hegel, Heidegger, Lacan, Arendt, Agamben, and Žižek. This analysis progresses a new understanding of modernity intrinsically connected to the growth of sovereignty as an organizing principle of contemporary life. He argues that it is the idea of modernity as a taken for granted era which is positioned as the essential condition for making linear history possible when it should instead be history in and of itself which dictates the existence of a particular period. Using Hegel's notion of spirit to trace the importance of sovereignty to the conception of the modern epoch within German idealism, Tacik traces Hegel's influence on Heidegger through reference to the star in his late philosophy which represents the hope of overcoming the metaphysical poverty of modernity. This line of thought reveals the necessity of a paradigm shift in our understanding of modernity that speaks to contemporary continental philosophy, theories of modernity, political theory, and critical reassessments of Marxism.
